SYDNOR FURNITURE VALUES

ising is fully attested by "thousands of dollars" spent annually by us in printers' ink, advertising in more papers than perhaps any two furniture houses south of Mason and Dixon's line. That it has paid us steady handsomely, our growth, our enlarged stores, our greatly increased stock, not only in quantity, but quality, we feel has fully justified the outlay. Our weekly pay-roll embraces twoscore of experienced men in the several departments. Our stock is thoughtfully and carefully bought; a uniform profit is placed on each and every article. We have but one price to give any customer; we allow a liberal discount for cash; we never misrepresent any article to make a sale, hence

OUR REPUTATION AS A STRICTLY RELIABLE HOUSE.

By closely adhering to above facts we could not help a generous, appreciative and confiding public 4 building for us a REPUTA- $ word to the wise: This week lady from Manchester called to price furniture for a bedroom. While going through our stock she remarked to our salesman that "She had been advised at another furniture store not to come to us, as we were the highest priced people in Richmond; that we had made a REPUTATION and were now robbing the public on it," &c., &c. However, "this much-advised lady" gave us her order for $158.15 and remarked, "She found our prices were more reasonable and our stock doubly as large and attractive as any she had looked over." Now, while we feel sure our furniture friends generally would not countenance this method of competition, we simply have to draw the conclusion that our REPU-TATION and business success is pinching someone's sales, and beg to add, we find this "free advertising" is very helpful to our business and far less expensive than any advertising rates we have been able to obtain from the newspapers of the
